Historical Note: Pat Cuda was born on April 30, 1909, in Chicago Heights, IL. He moved to Milwaukee in 1933 and began working as a public relations counselor and also operated a press bureau. During World War II, he served as a public relations specialist with the Army Air Force. After the war, he resumed his work in public relations and was named public relations director for the Republican Party of Milwaukee County in 1955. He was also a freelance writer, contributing numerous articles and letters to several local newspapers. He wrote on a wide variety of topics, including politics, sports, and other social issues. For the most part, the collection details his freelance writing and consists of newspaper clippings, correspondence and miscellaneous articles.

Administrative Note: The collection was processed on February 2000 by Kevin Abing.
