Abstract: Byron Kilbourn was one of Milwaukee's founding fathers. He was born in Connecticut in 1803 and moved with his family to Ohio, where he found work as a surveyor. He believed the area around the Milwaukee River a promising site for development, and purchased land on the west side of the river in 1837. He feuded with Solomon Juneau who had established a village on the east side which sparked the Milwaukee Bridge War in 1845. After Kilbourntown, Juneautown and Walker's Point merged to form the City of Milwaukee in 1846, Kilbourn became a prominent, if not controversial, presence in the city's political, social and economic life. Poor health prompted Kilbourn to move to Florida in 1868. He died there two years later and was buried in Jacksonville. His remains were disinterred and relocated to Milwaukee's Forest Home Cemetery in 1998.

Scope and Content: The collection contains Kilbourn's personal correspondence prior to his arrival in the Milwaukee area, biographical information, and a probate file. It also includes his collection of medical, history, and natural sciences books.

Administrative Note: Material was added to the collection in September 1999 and processed by K. Abing. The collection was reprocessed on November 1, 2011 by Jenny Stevenson.
