Abstract: John Norquist served in the Wisconsin State Assembly from 1975-1983, during which time he opposed completing the Stadium South Freeway and freeway expansion in general. In 1983, he won a seat in the Wisconsin State Senate for the Democratic Party. Norquist was elected Milwaukee's 37th mayor in 1988. He served as the mayor from 1988 until he left office in 2004 to lead the Congress for the New Urbanism. He was known for his "fiscally conservative socialist" stance on issues, as well as his anti-freeway position and the removal of the Park East Freeway.

Scope and Content: The collection includes correspondences, newspaper clippings, certificates, speeches, mayoral race research and platform proposals, and both city and county reports. There are also catalogued books added to the library collection, photographs, and oversized documents.

Access and Use: No restrictions
