He was captured and exiled by the British, but he eventually returned to South Africa and engaged in several different vocations before becoming a "Health Evangelist." He immigrated to the U.S. and attended the Lindlahr College of Natural Therapeutics in Illinois from 1914-1917 and then worked at Lindlahr Sanitarium in Elmhurst, IL, as Physical Director, Lecturer and Social Manager until 1927. He also worked at Sun-Diet Sanitarium in Aurora, NY (1929-1939) and at Bergholz Institute in Milwaukee (1940-). He earned a national reputation as a teacher and lecturer. He passed away in March 1964.
